INDEX FOR VOLUMES II-IV (Nos. 5-16)

(Index for Volume I appeared in Issue No. 4)

Aguilar, German Z., Suspension of control: a sociocultural study on specific drinking habits and their psychiatric consequences. 15:245-52

Bakan, David, Suicide and the method of introspection. 7:313-22
Baker, James V., A fresh look at "Prufrock." 14:167-76
Barron, David B., Intuition as a response to patient potential. 6:237-42
Bassoff, Bruce, Free will and determinism. 15:259-62
Benda, Clemens E., Language, intelligence and creativity. 9:27-44
Bernath, Andrew K., The world of a satyr: a case history. 12:405-12
Bonner, Hubert, The proactivert: a contribution to the theory of psychological types. 11:323-8
Braaten, Leif J., Tillich and the art of healing. 13:3-14
Brooks, George W. and William N. Deane, Chronic schizophrenics view recovery. 14:121-30
Bruch, Hilde, The effects of modern psychiatric theories on our society. 6:213-32
Buhler, Charlotte, Considerations about the role of values and beliefs in human life. 6:147-74
Burton, Arthur, Existential conceptions in John Hersey's novel: The Child Buyer. 6:243-58
———, Time, space, and ascensionism. 16:287-300

Callieri, Bruno and Luigi Frighi, An approach to the problem of existential vs. psychoanalytic anxiety. 7:323-32
Cameron, W. Bruce, The use of personality theories in psychiatry. 11:277-84
Chotlos, John W. and John B. Deiter, Motivation from a phenomenological viewpoint. 5:35-48
Clive, Geoffrey, Notes towards a topography of the irrational since the Enlightenment. 14:177-204
Cohen, Stephen H., Neurotic ambiguity and the neurotic hiatus between knowledge and action. 9:75-96
Crumbaugh, James C. and Leonard T. Maholick, The case for Frankl's "Will to Meaning." 13:43-8

Deane, William N. and George W. Brooks, Chronic schizophrenics view recovery. 14:121-30
Deiter, John B. and John W. Chotlos, Motivation from a phenomenological viewpoint. 5:35-48

Ehrmann, Jacques, Rameau's nephew: an existential psychoanalysis of Diderot by himself. 13:59-68

Farber, Leslie H., Perfectibility and the psychoanalytic candidate. 11:285-92
Felder, Richard E., Carl A. Whitaker, John Warkentin, and Thomas P. Malone, Experiential psychotherapy: evaluation of relatedness. 11:247-54
Fingarette, Herbert, Real guilt and neurotic guilt. 10:145-58
Fisher, Kenneth A., Psychological bias. 16:325-42
Frankl, Viktor E., Dynamics, existence and values. 5:5-16
———, Basic concepts of logotherapy. 9:111-8
———, Existential dynamics and neurotic escapisms. 13:27-42
Frey, Paul S., Vaihinger's law and existential inquiry. 15:237-44
Frighi, Luigi and Bruno Callieri, An approach to the problem of existential vs. psychoanalytic anxiety. 7:323-32

Garner, Harry H. and Robert F. Jeans, Confrontation technique in psychotherapy: some existential implications. 8:393-408
Gendlin, Eugene T., Subverbal communication and therapist expressivity trends in client-centered therapy with schizophrenics. 14:105-20
Griffith, Richard M., Repetition: Constantine (S.) Constantius. 8:437-48

Hartman, Robert S., The self in Kierkegaard. 8:409-36
Heuscher, Julius, The "golden hair" in the fairy tale. 14:159-66
———, The "latency period" in the fairy tale. 16:317-24
Hobart, Charles W., The meaning of death. 15:219-24
Hoffman, Frederick J., The wheel of self: some contemporary examples and definitions. 5:105-12
Holzinger, Rudolf, Analytic and integrative therapy with the help of LSD-25. 15:225-36
Hora, Thomas, The epistemology of love. 7:303-12
Howland, Elihu S., Nostalgia. 10:197-204

Jeans, Robert F. and Harry H. Garner, Confrontation technique in psychotherapy: some existential implications. 8:393-408
Jourard, Sidney M., Some lethal aspects of the male role. 7:333-44
———, The role of spirit and "inspiriting" in human wellness. 11:293-306

Kelman, Harold, Perspectives on psychoanalysis. 9:1-26
King-Farlow, John, The Sartrian analysis of sexuality. 7:291-302

Kling, L., Irrational occurrences in psychotherapy and tendentious apperception. 15:253-8
Knight, James A., Some significant perspectives in the work of Carl Gustav Jung. 10:179-98
Kors, Pieter C., The fear and/or wish toward penetration. 11:263-76
Korwin, Marta, Aged humanity in cocoons. 13:69-88

Ledermann, E. K., Clinical applications of existential psychotherapy. 9:45-68
Levitsky, A., An approach to a theory of psychotherapy. 14:131-40
Luce, Ralph A., Jr., Existential symptom and the cultural conflict. 5:49-70
Lyons, Joseph, The problem of existential inquiry. 14:141-50

Maholick, Leonard T. and James C. Crumbaugh, The case for Frankl's "Will to Meaning." 13:43-8
Malone, Thomas P., Carl A. Whitaker, John Warkentin, and Richard E. Felder, Experiential psychotherapy: evaluation of relatedness. 11: 247-54
Manasse, Ernst Moritz, Jaspers' philosophy of existence and his attitude toward psychoanalysis. 8:449-62
Marsman, W., Confidence. 13:15-26
Maurer, Adah, The child's knowledge of non-existence. 6:193-212
Meister, Robert, Society and guilt: some ignored aspects of the Eichmann case and The Deputy. 15:275-82
Mendel, Werner M., The future in the model of psychopathology. 8:363-70
———, Hospital treatment for chronic schizophrenics. 13:49-58
———, Structure as process in psychotherapy. 16:301-8
Moustakas, Clark E., Confrontation and encounter. 7:263-90
Mullan, Hugh and Iris Sangiuliano, The subjective phenomenon in existential psychotherapy. 5:17-34
Murphy, Robert C., Jr., A suicidal emergency. 6:133-46

Neuringer, Charles, The problem of suicide. 9:69-74

O'Connell, Walter and Penny Peterson, Humor and repression. 16:309-16

Peterson, Penny and Walter O'Connell, Humor and repression. 16:309-16
Progoff, Ira, The psychological dimension of religion. 10:167-78

Rubins, Jack L., A phenomenological view of early development of the child. 9:97-110

Salfield, D. J., Decision. 14:151-8
Sangiuliano, Iris, The experience of psychotherapy. 11:255-62
Sangiuliano, Iris and Hugh Mullan, The subjective phenomenon in existential psychotherapy. 5:17-34
Scher, Jordan M., Vivacity, pathology, and existence. 10:205-10
Schmitt, Richard, Nietzsche's psychological theory. 5:71-92
Schneiders, Alexander A., Religion and psychological health: a new approach. 5:93-104
Schrag, Calvin O., Towards a phenomenology of guilt. 12:333-42
Stern, E. Mark, Mirror-dialogue approach to the treatment of a borderline psychosis. 15:207-18
Stokvis, Berthold, Man as a psychosomatic unity. 12:361-70
Stuchlik, Jaroslav, Existential approach to the psychology of propaganda. 12:383-96
Sutherland, Richard L., Choosing: as therapeutic aim, method and philosophy. 8:371-92

Vargas, Manuel J., Some observations on knowing. 6:233-6
Vidor, Robert, Problems of existential analysis in a changing age. 5:113-22
———, Pain and the modulations of the affective space. 12:371-82

Warkentin, John, Carl D. Whitaker, Thomas P. Malone and Richard E. Felder, Experiential psychotherapy: evaluation of relatedness. 11: 247-54
Wenkart, Antonia, Why existentialism? 11:239-46
Wenkart, Simon, The meaning of sports for contemporary man. 12:397-404
Whitaker, Carl A., John Warkentin, Thomas P. Malone and Richard E. Felder, Experiential psychotherapy: evaluation of relatedness. 11: 247-54
Winthrop, Henry, Phenomenological and existential considerations surrounding the problem of value. 6:175-92
———, Social zombieism: the anti-existential in modern life. 12:343-60
———, Existential and phenomenological frontiers. 7:345-58; 8:463-84; 9:119-38; 10:211-34; 11:307-22; 12:413-27; 13:89-102; 15:263-74; 16:343-56